
Subject: Re: class and type

Posted by Joerg von Lingen on Mon, 05 Mar 2007 16:01:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hello,

with respect to Joachim's suggestions I have revised the scheme for ambiguous names and published the new version at http://www.railml.org/genesis/rollingstock/rollingstock_1.05.xsd.

On 01.02.2007 13:58, j.rubroeder@sma-partner.ch wrote:

> Hello,

> We started to use part of the rollingstock scheme for exchanging > rollingstock data via web service.

>

> While generating a lot of classes and data types, we realised that the > vehicleType has a sub element "class". The operator has an attribute named

> "class" as well and the manufacturer with the meaningless attribute "type"

> like many other attributes in railML. This leads for example to generating > the class named "class", not forbidden but very confusing.

>

> I therefore suggest to define a short list of forbidden names ("class",

> "type", "element", "date" ...) and to rename the existing ones to

> "classification", "operatorClass", "manufacturerType" and so on.

>

> Kind regards

> Joachim

>

--

Mit freundlichen Grüßen/Best regards,

Jörg von Lingen
