
Subject: Re: Ideas for the future development

Posted by Vasco Paul Kolmorgen on Mon, 29 Aug 2005 00:58:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Fri, 24 Jun 2005 14:34:28 +0200, "Matthias Hengartner"

<hengartner@ivt.baug.ethz.ch> wrote:

>> Additionally, we have interfaces e. g. to the interlocking schema which >> is currently developed at TU Dresden (does anyone have information about >> the current state of the project) or the existing schemes rolling stock >> and timetable. Maybe, these interfaces need extensions and new elements >> in our infrastructure schema.

>

> Unfortunately, the Link to the working draft of an interlocking schema > (developed by Gregor Theeg, see his posting from 30.9.2004) doesn't work > anymore (I guess because of the migration to the new website). Is it > possible to re-setup this page?

This draft was not conform with the common RailML-guidelines written by Nils (published at the General-section of our document-root). So we agreed to revise this draft before publishing.

I suggest to use the next RailML-conference for discussion about this.
I think, we will have some more partners for further developments in this area.

Best regards,

--

Dipl.-Ing. Vasco Paul Kolmorgen

RailML-Konsortium

Telefon: +49-351-46676939 Telefax: +49-351-46676940

Zeunerstrasse 38; D-01069 Dresden www.railml.org
