

Dear David,

thanks for your suggestions.

1. service under places element

Yes, there are services, which are only available for specific places. Thus adding an optional attribute @placeRelatedService (tServiceCategoryListExt).

1.1. separate shower (and a lavatory)

The info would be only needed together with a sleeper place. Thus having it as a separate attribute would make no sense to me.

2. separate accessibility information

Typically not all areas of a passenger wagon are accessible by wheel chairs.

With the flag at places element this can be marked for each type of place.

Having this separated from the places would be a lost of detail.

In addition to normal seats one might think about sleeper compartments for wheelchair use or bistro areas.

Best regards,

Joerg v. Lingen - Rollingstock Coordinator

---