
Subject: Re: speed profiles and braking percentages
Posted by Christian Rahmig on Wed, 24 Oct 2012 07:48:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dear Dirk,

- > It seems to me that there are no attributes on whether a speed change is
- > signalled and pre-signalled? Two boolean attributes would be needed.
- > (Signalled: Is there any kind of sign at the place where the speed
- > change applies? Pre-signalled: Is there any kind of sign at a proper
- > pre-signalling distance before the place where the speed change applies?)

If there is a sign at the place where the speed change applies, a <signal> element might be placed. The only thing missing in that concept at the moment is the reference from the <signal> to the <speedChange>.

In [1] the proposed attribute "signalised" for the <speedChange> has been discarded after the discussion with the other coordinators on September 10.

[1] <https://trac.assembla.com/railML/ticket/41#comment:7>

Regards

--
Christian Rahmig
railML.infrastructure coordinator
