Dear Susanne,

> But where should the "ocpTrackRef" refer to?

I also did ask myself that question.

We could probably rename it "platformEdgeRef" which would be of some practical relevance. But in rare cases there could be two platform edges at one cross-section. (The relation from a cross-section to its platforms is also given by both relating to the same <ocp> and laying at the same track. So if this is not too much around the corner, we could also declare ocpTrackRef as obsolete.)
